Overview:

Borderline Personality Disorder (BPD) remains one of the most complex and demanding conditions to treat, often requiring a high level of clinical creativity, adaptability, and emotional engagement. Over the past years, Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT) has led the way in transforming both the understanding and treatment outcomes for individuals with BPD. Yet, DBT is just one of several evidence-based approaches available. To enhance treatment efficiency and better tailor interventions to individual needs, clinicians can now adopt a multifaceted, integrative approach—blending DBT with Cognitive Behavioral Therapy techniques and Schema-Focused Therapy. This fusion enables a nuanced and flexible therapeutic response. This training offers a comprehensive exploration of BPD, equipping participants with the skills to discuss the diagnosis in ways that reduce client resistance and boost motivation. It also delivers practical, evidence-based strategies for use in clinical practice. By the end of the training, attendees will have developed a deep understanding of BPD and gained a robust toolkit for effective assessment, diagnosis, and compassionate treatment—empowering clients to build more stable, meaningful lives.

Learning objectives:

1. Master the diagnostic criteria for BPD, and address key differential diagnosis concerns
2. Identify 8 motivations for non-suicidal self-injury and use strategies for intervention for each one
3. Identify and analyze the 18 maladaptive schemas that drive destructive behaviors in BPD.
4. Apply an integrated CBT/DBT/Schema therapy model to clients with BPD

A theoretical course illustrated with clinical examples. This course is composed of videos of 5 to 15 minutes each. The PowerPoint of the course to download.
