

Course: creating emotional change with emotion-focused therapy

Address: <https://asadis.net/en/course/creating-emotional-change-with-emotion-focused-therapy/>

Duration: 3h30

Type of course: Continuing education

Location: Online course

Individual price: $120.00

Overview:

Emotions are a powerful instrument in psychotherapy, signaling whether our needs are being met within an environment. They can manifest as either painful or adaptive experiences, each carrying significant meaning. During sessions, painful emotions can be brought into awareness, activated, tolerated, and ultimately transformed into adaptive feelings.

Emotionally Focused Therapy (EFT) offers a robust framework for engaging with clients' emotions during sessions and aiding them in making sense of their emotional pain. To facilitate the integration of EFT's key concepts into your practice, Dr. Timulak has developed this hands-on course, which covers:

- differentiating between primary, secondary and instrumental emotion;
- assessing client emotion processing styles;
- maladaptive emotional processes;
- case conceptualisation;
- the role of the therapeutic relationship in EFT;
- working with emotional avoidance and emotional dysregulation;
- key EFT tasks and interventions (such as Two Chair Dialogue for working with self-criticism);
- transforming core emotional pain in therapy through the activation of adaptive emotional processes.

This course is designed to equip you with all the necessary tools to help your clients master their relationship with their emotions.

Learning objectives:

1. Understand primary, secondary, and instrumental emotions

2. Explore the development of emotional vulnerability
3. Apply strategies to transform emotional vulnerability through adaptive emotional processes

Learning material:

This workshop includes theory as well as clinical examples. It includes videos of 5 to 15 minutes each. The power-point of the workshop can be downloaded.

Audience: This training is intended for mental health professionals.

The expert

Ladislav Timulak, psychologist, is Professor in Counselling Psychology at Trinity College Dublin, Ireland. He is Course Director of the Doctorate in Counselling Psychology.
