Duration: 3h

Type of course: Continuing education

Location: Online course

Overview:

Many clients come to therapy seeking support for recent or anticipated losses and their lasting effects - difficulties forming attachments, a tendency toward excessive self-reliance, or other disruptions to relational and emotional life. After all, loss is intrinsic to the human experience, and it offers opportunities to cultivate wisdom, growth, and resilience.

In this workshop - designed by Professor Emeritus Robert Neimeyer, a leading psychologist and grief specialist - you will:

- Examine advanced grief-therapy techniques within robust therapeutic relationships and contemporary theoretical frameworks, focusing on how to help clients reconstruct their worlds of meaning after loss.- Learn tools and interventions that facilitate active engagement with grief both in session and between sessions. Techniques such as dimensional dialogues with the deceased provide practical, reflective pathways for integration.- Develop skills for creating a safe therapeutic environment that supports emotional regulation, perspective-taking, and the weaving of loss into clients' broader life narratives.- Explore grief as a process of reconstructing (rather than relinquishing) bonds with the deceased, employing creative narrative, arts-assisted, and performative approaches.

Key topics will be covered in detail: 1. Understanding prolonged grief disorder and its clinical implications 2. Reviewing research on traumatic loss and the crisis of meaning 3. Identifying attachment-related bereavement complications 4. Discussing evidence for resilience and post-traumatic growth 5. Examining outcomes in meaning-focused grief therapy

Learning objectives:

1. Distinguish between adaptive and complicated forms of grief
2. Apply restorative retelling procedures for mastering the event story of the loss
3. Outline narrative techniques for accommodating loss in literal and figurative ways into the changed narrative of the client's life
4. Implement two techniques for consolidating a constructive bond with the deceased as the client transitions toward a changed future

Learning material:

A theoretical course illustrated with clinical examples. This course is composed of videos of 5 to 15 minutes each. The PowerPoint of the course to download.

Audience: This course is intended for mental health professionals.
